Stunned doctor confirms incredible hair growth

BAKING SODA CURED MY BALDNESS!

AFTER: Marc Marc Gillon says he has plenty of hair.

By IRWIN FISHER

Bald Marc Gillon rubbed baking soda on his head and sprouted a full head of hair!

"I know it sounds crazy but just look at me — I've got more hair than I know what to do with," said the 47-year-old man from Brussels, Belgium.

"Before taking soda, I tried every baldness cure there is. And time after time, they worked. Then I read an old book on folk remedies that said baking soda thickens hair.

"I laughed it off at first but then decided: 'What the hell.' I mixed baking soda with warm water and rubbed it on my scalp every day for two weeks.

"One day I noticed some soft brown fuzz on my head. I was very excited and continued to use baking soda and my hair just kept on growing.

"My friends couldn't believe it and neither could my doctor. He's writing up my story for a medical journal."

Dr. Christian Masami confirmed that Gillon used to be bald but now has plenty of hair. He has no explanation for the man's new hair growth.

But he suspects that the baking soda somehow revitalized hair follicles that went dormant when Gillon lost his hair in his late 20s.

"It's just a theory but it makes sense," said the physician.

"Baking soda is very abrasive and must likely removed layers of dead skin from Mr. Gillon's scalp.

"That alone wouldn't cause new hair growth. There must be something in baking soda that triggered the hair follicles back into action.

"Would it work for someone else? I really don't know. All I can say is that Mr. Gillon has hair for the first time in years." Gillon himself said he'll continue to manage with baking soda "just in case."

"If I stop my hair might fall out," he said. "I don't like being bald so I'm not going to take a chance."

BEFORE: This unretouched two-year-old photograph shows the extent of Gillon's baldness.

Editor's note: It's not advisable to apply anything other than certified hair- or skin-care products to your head without first consulting a doctor.

Taxpayers cough up $426 for murder suspect's new duds

Taxpayers shelled out a whopping $462 so an accused murderer would have a fancy new suit to wear to court!

A Lancaster County, Pa., judge ordered the county to pay for the dapper duds so Robert P. Zook, Jr. can get a fair trial. Zook's attorneys petitioned the court for the new threads because the only clothing he had is prison garb.

The $462 bill for the clothing included: one suit, $250; one shirt, $36; one shirt, $17, and two ties, $39.50 each.

Zook is accused of murdering two people in Lancaster City in 1985. The victims were bound, gagged, stabbed and strangled in their apartment, say police.

Pig drowns in backyard swimming pool

Bill Johnson found his new swimming pool a bit crowded when he went for an early morning dip — it had become the watery grave for a 5-foot, 500-pound boar!

Wanda, the pet of Johnson's neighbor in Iron Station, N.C., somehow got out of her pen, scaled the pool's knee-high deck and stumbled into the water.

Before drowning, the poor critter ripped the pool's above-ground liner and tore away the ladder.

It took six men to remove her.

Stupid punks land in a peck of trouble

By STONEY FARNER

An angry ostrich stomped the stuffing out of two men who stole the critter from a zoo and tried to slaughter it for their dinner!

Ostrich K.O.'s a pair of crooks!

Bird-brained bandits mistook 335-pound critter for a turkey!

Police said Lee Richards and Phillip Layton at first thought the 335-pound bird was an oversize turkey but learned the awful truth when the ostrich figured out it was in trouble and attacked the bandits in the living room of their trailer.

"I've never seen two crooks so happy to be arrested," said Carleton Grenier, a patrolman with the police department in Geneva, Switzerland.

"Richards had a broken arm and one of his eyes was almost pecked out of his head. Layton hadn't fared much better.

"He had a couple of fractured ribs and a badly sprained back. And I'll tell you something. That bird was still going at them when we put them in cuffs."

Richards, 19, and Layton, 23, were charged with theft and cruelty to animals in the case. In their statement to police the men said they were high school dropouts and out of work.

They also pointed out that they were hungry when they spotted "that turkey in the zoo and figured it would make a good dinner."

They allegedly broke into the zoo after it closed for the night, roped the ostrich and took it to their mobile home in the back of a truck.

According to police, the ostrich remained calm until they got it into the living room. But once the ropes were loosened, it attacked.

"I said, 'Oh s....! Now we've done it,'" Layton told police. "The bird knocked me against a wall and kicked me in the chest. It pecked Lee's eye and managed him to the floor.

"I thought we were both dead."

The men were rescued after a neighbor heard them screaming and called the police. Officers managed to get them out and lock the ostrich inside.

Zoo employees shot the bird with a tranquilizer dart and got it back to the zoo unharmed.

Animal behavior expert Seth Zoller said that Layton and Richards were extremely lucky to have escaped with their lives.

"These birds kick when they're angry and can easily inflict serious or even fatal injury," Zoller said.

A full-up ostrich can inflict serious or even fatal injury, say animal experts.

South Dakota man invents 13-month calendar

Rancher Gabriel Raba wants our future years to be more orderly — so he's invented a new calendar that's sensible, easy to remember, and one month longer than the old one.

Raba, 78, of New Underwood, S. Dakota, says his invention consists of a 13-month year to which each month has exactly 28 days. That totals 364 days, so to bring us up to the full 365, he's suggesting that New Year's Day last 46 hours.

Under the new Raba calendar, every month would begin on a Monday and finish on the last day of the week. Every four years, Leap Year would have an extra 46-hour day and February 29 would be a thing of the past.

"I haven't had hardly anybody that didn't agree with me," said Raba, who hasn't named the 13th month on his calendar yet.

Man nearly kills himself flipping flapjacks!

Flying frying pan knocks him cold

By MONEY WEBER

A 38-year-old Texas man almost killed himself while flipping a pancake!

In a mind-blowing comedy of errors, Ronald Grantham flipped the flapjack into the air, and

- Slipped on a pat of butter that had fallen to his kitchen floor.
- Popped himself in the forehead with the cast iron pancake skillet.
- Fell backward, hitting his head on the corner of his stove.

The blows to his head knocked Grantham out cold causing a severe concussion. But his troubles weren't over yet.

As he continued to fall his right arm got twisted around behind his back and broke in two places when he hit the floor.

"I feel like the Three Stooges rolled into one," said Grantham of Dallas. "All I wanted to do was cook a pancake for breakfast.

HIJINKS comedy of errors nearly killed Ronald Grantham when he tried to cook pancakes for breakfast

"The next thing I know the pancake is sailing through the air and I'm falling backward to the floor.

"The skillet hit my forehead and then boom! — the back of my head hit the stove.

"When I regained consciousness the pain was so bad I couldn't get up. I called for my wife and she came running from our bedroom.

"She said, 'What happened to you?' I said, 'I don't know. I think I was trying to cook breakfast.'"

His doctor says Grantham will have to take it easy for at least three weeks due to his multiple injuries.

"The doctor said I could have killed myself hanging my head around like that and I believe him," said Grantham.

"The next time I want pancakes I'll get my wife out of bed to make them for me. Either that or I'll go to the pancake house.

"It's safer there."

Grantham's wife, Gloria, said: "I guess I don't have to tell you that my hubby's a klutz. Last year he broke two toes and sprained his wrist when he fell while getting out of our car."

Skeleton found still wearing his boots!

A skeleton found in an underwater cave is the remains of a legendary character who disappeared 68 years ago — and died with his boots on.

By JACK ALEXANDER

The bones were discovered by divers in an underwater cavern known as the "Old Joes Hole" near Lake City, Fla.

Divers and others in the area named the cave after Joes Preston, who disappeared in 1922 near the spot where the skeleton was found.

His case was forgotten quickly and relatives held a memorial service by the underwater cavern. The skeleton was wearing boots of a style popular in the 20s, according to Sheriff's Lt. Jim Wells.

"They were high tops," said a sheriff's spokesman. "Not really the kind of thing a man would wear while swimming."

Forensic experts at the University of Florida verified it was Preston's skeleton. Preston was in his 20s and walked with a limp because of a crippling disease. The skeleton was of Preston's age and bore signs of a crippling disease.

"The result will probably be that the skeleton is very old and that his death wasn't homicide. He probably drowned," said Sheriff Tom Tramel.

Little is known about Joes Preston, except he was alone at the spring the day he was last seen.

"He just disappeared one day," said Jessie Steadman, 84.

"Everybody looked for him for four to five days but never found him.

Free manure!

Country folks outside of Lyons, France, are luring city slickers to their rural farms to teach them how to spread manure — and when their visit is over, they get to take home a free trunkload of the muck for their lawn and gardens.

Visitors will turn over the manure-load of $27 for the privilege of learning how to spread the manure with a pitchfork and a tractor. The price even includes food and breakfast.

"Muck-spreading is very satisfying," says farm owner Pierre Lallance. "It's a good way of working up an appetite and it keeps you warm."

Hubby drives 14 hours with dead wife beside him

. . . but he never knew it as he chatted away!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Retiree Raymond Alix thought his wife was an unusually sound sleeper during their 14-hour, 640-mile car trip — he didn't realize she was dead.

"I talked to Ginette a bit at first, but I didn't think anything about it," said Alix. "I knew she was quiet but she often ignores me when I ramble on.

"We'd been married 40 years . . . did everything together . . . hating to cars always made her drowsy, particularly on long, monotonous trips." The elderly couple had left their home in Sisteron, France, before dawn for the long ride to visit their son in Avignon.

"I figured she had dozed off," said Alix. "I didn't blame her.

"I'd have done the same thing if I didn't have to drive."

About four hours down the road, Alix pulled into a service station to gas up and use the rest room. "I didn't disturb her," he told police in Avignon.

She was still sitting upright in the seat beside Alix with her eyes closed when he glanced up the car a second time.

"I stopped at a roadside rest two and after six hours of driving," said Alix.

"I tried to shake her awake but couldn't."

The shocked hubby said it never dawned on him his beloved wife was dead until they reached the outskirts of Avignon, when he stopped again for gas.

"I tapped her hand to wake her up and it was ice cold," said Alix. "Only then did I realize my dear wife was dead."

Doctors said Ginette probably died of a heart attack shortly after they began their journey.

"I don't know what I'll do without her but at least she went peacefully," said the heartbroken hubby.

"The last thing she said to me was, 'Drive carefully, dear.'"

Coming attraction — movies especially for blind folks

An incredible new technology will soon make it possible for blind people to see movies!

The breakthrough — called audio vision — is deceptively simple. Blind people are issued headphones that carry the voice of a director who describes scenes as they appear on movie screens.

That means the blind will be able to go to the movies without poking complaints in the ribs to find out what's going on.

"It's marvelous," said William Kirby, a blind Australian who used the headphones to see a special version of an Indiana Jones movie on a recent trip to Paris.

"You hear what a companion would tell you. I can't wait to go to the movies again."

The audio vision system was developed by experts at the San Francisco State University but won't be in wide use until the film industry moves to a special recording technique that allows multiple sound tracks to be stored on film.

The system can also be used with television and is expected to open a whole new world of

Kid inherits $15 million estate!

By PETE COOKE

Simon Lister was like any other 12-year-old schoolboy, but his life changed instantly when a distant relative left him a fabulous mansion filled with art treasures and set on 5,000 acres of rolling farmland.

Simon inherited the fantastic $15 million estate from Marcus Wickham-Boynton, a bachelor with no close relatives who recently died at the age of 85.

The sprawling 18th century mansion named Burton Agnes Hall is located near Bridlington, England. The walls of the mansion are lined with priceless paintings by the great French artists Renoir and Monet.

"Marcus was anxious that the house he had run for more than 50 years should remain in the family even though we are distant relatives," said Simon's stunned mother, Susan. "We're just an average family — and now this!

"Marcus was determined it should remain a real home rather than a museum," she said. "He entrusted it to Simon and it will be a formidable responsibility for him."

Simon's new responsibilities will include overseeing the estate's three tenant farms and horse-breeding operation. In addition, sections of the mansion are open to the public at a museum six months out of the year and 30,000 visitors pass through.

"I'm sure people will find Simon is a lucky young man, but there are obligations along with such a wonderful legacy," his mother said. "It's all somewhat over his head."

HUGE ironstone-filled mansion and 5,000 acres of land were left to stunned Simon by a distant relative.

Deerly departed

A white-tailed deer did more than bite the hand that had been feeding him for three years — he killed the man.

Farmer Jack Awbrey, 61, was found gored and trampled on his cattle farm in Heard County, Ga.

The 224-pound buck named B.J. may have not been himself because of the mating season, said Sheriff Frank Cronk.

Awbrey had fed and befriended the buck since it wandered onto his farm more than three years ago.

Authorities shot the deer after finding the farmer's body.

My nightmare never goes away — I killed my wife!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Anguished widower John Coleomer lives with a nightmare reality: He killed his beloved wife a year ago and left his children motherless.

The father of four pinned his wife Jenny to the floor and suffocated her after she attacked him and lashed him with a belt buckle. He was trying to stop her from injuring him or herself — but he used too much force and accidentally killed her.

"I wish it had never happened," said Coleomer, 47, who was acquitted of murder after the tragedy. "I miss Jen a lot."

The couple was wed in 1971 and lived happily in Aspendale, Australia, for several years before their troubles began. Then Jenny began having mental problems and turned on her own family.

"She had trouble relating to people and had no friends," said Coleomer, a house painter who has two sons, Dave, 18, and Steven, 6, and two daughters, Sharon, 19, and Tracey, 8. "She was often paranoid.

"Eight years ago she stopped doing anything around the house. I brought up the children and made all the meals. People asked me why I didn't leave her, but the reason was I loved her and always hoped she'd get better."

JIMMY Coleomer had tried to kill her husband twice.

But as the years passed, Jenny Coleomer got worse. She had violent fights with her husband and twice tried to kill him. Then, last March, Jenny began hitting him with the buckle end of a belt.

"I told her to stop," Coleomer recalled. "She put the belt around her own neck and screamed at me that I was a useless wanking."

John says he grabbed at the belt and both fell to the floor. He pushed his knee into her throat. He says he didn't realize until 20 minutes later that Jenny had died.

Panicking, the heartbroken husband buried his wife's body in the backyard, tears streaming down his face. He was terrified he'd lose his children, but nevertheless, he went to police and confessed.

The Coleomer children told police about their mother's violent behavior and stuck by their dad. Seven months after Jenny died, a court took just one hour to declare him innocent of murder charges.

HEARTBROKEN John Coleomer has to live with his memories.

This message is only for those who have never won anything at the races, lotto or other lotteries...or who have only won insignificant amounts (less than $100).
This message is also for those of you who believe it is impossible to win several thousand dollars and think that their life will never be anything but a succession of dull, sad days.

Your golden number

Scientists admit that planetary positions on our birthdate influence our lives, our behavior and the right – and wrong – decisions we make. Now, more and more people recognize that a particular number will also influence our lives. Some assert that this number is the visible sign – much like a mystical presence – through which the infinite intelligence helps us, proving that we are not totally on our own.

If you have read as I have, statements made by bigtime winners (over $1,000,000), then you know they very often admit to having been helped by being dictated all or some of the numbers. They will acknowledge this fact openly though some may not believe them.

The most specialized media will also prove to you that an incredible amount of people have won hundreds and thousands they never could have hoped to win – thanks to their personal lucky number. They often talk and write about it.

Help yourself and heaven will help you

Despair no more

It is a fact that luck strikes most often when it is least expected. Reading this message is the first step. Luck is about to come your way. Perhaps you were to read this message.

Looking back on all the important moments of your life, you might have noticed that a certain number – different from other people's numbers – reoccurs over and over again. Those who understand the message and who recognize their Golden Number have been known to win thousands at the races, lotto, or lotteries.

I wish to reach those of you who – for various reasons – have not grasped this message.

$30G REWARD!

Heartbroken Alabama man offers his life savings for the return of granddaughter kidnapped in 1987

By SUSAN JAMISON

Grieving granddad LaWade Strickland wants so desperately to see his little granddaughter Marlena again — that he's offering his [redacted] life savings to anyone who can help him find the kidnapped 6-year-old girl.

DETERMINED LaWade Strickland has offered $30,000 for information leading to the return of his granddaughter.

Brown-haired, brown-eyed Marlena was snatched from her front yard by a person or persons unknown almost three years ago. Her family have heard nothing more of her since then.

"She was my first grandchild and she just simply disappeared," said Strickland, 51, of Mayfield, Ky. "We searched everywhere. There wasn't a square foot left unsearched in a seven-mile radius of her home, but we found nothing.

"I believe she's still alive and I want her back. It's the hardest thing I've ever faced.

"Death is easy compared to this. You can't describe it — it's a nightmare."

Cute little Marlena, then a 4-year-old with silver caps on her bottom teeth, was playing on her front steps on April 16, 1987, just before she vanished. The child's mother, Pam Bailey, says she heard a car motor and the squeal of brakes and went to the door to see if Marlena was OK.

When she found Marlena was nowhere in sight, she began a frantic search for the child that eventually involved 1,500 volunteers.

"They thought she might have wandered off, but we searched almost a solid week and turned up nothing," Strickland said. "We believe she was definitely kidnapped, but we don't know what the motive was.

"I'm offering a $30,000 reward for any information that will lead to her safe return, no strings attached.

"It's my life savings but it's worth it. I'll do anything to bring her back."

Police have had reports that the child was sighted in Anniston, Ala., about one year ago, but since then there has been no trace of Marlena.

"The sightings got our hopes up," Strickland said.

"But it's been almost three years now."

"Still, we aren't going to give up — ever. She's out there somewhere and we're determined to bring her home again.

"For as long as I live I'm going to search for that little girl. She's my flesh and blood and I'm never going to forget her."

NEWS readers with information on Marlena's whereabouts should write to Find Marlena Headquarters, 117 South 7th Street, Mayfield, Ky. 42066 or call LaWade Strickland collect at (502) 247-6931.

PRETTY Marlena was 4 years old when she was kidnapped.

Nibblers are sexier, says study

Guys who want to know if their date is in the mood for a bit of steamy romance will pick up a revealing clue if they watch the way she's eating her food — if she nibbles, there's more than apple pie for dessert!

But if she takes gigantic bites, chances are they'll be taking a cold shower before they hit the sack that night.

That's the gist of a study carried out by psychologists Patricia Pliner and Shelly Chaiken, who quizzed 140 men and women about their dining habits.

Their results indicate that people of both sexes will go hungry when they're really turned on by their dates.

Girl is terrified to go backward!

EMMA Mates' real phobia stems without warning

By SUSAN HEILBOM

Little Emma Mates is looking forward to being cured of her phobia — a fear of going backward!

The 5-year-old has developed a terror of going in reverse and nothing her parents do or say can reassure her.

"The most worrying thing is that it seems to be getting worse," said the child's mother, Shirley Hensley, 31. "She can't even talk about her problem anymore — she just starts crying."

She gets hysterical if car shifts into reverse

Emma's bizarre fear is only a few months old. Before November she was a perfectly normal child. But one day as she was riding the school bus the driver put the vehicle in reverse. The child became so hysterical she was forced to jump off the school bus while it was moving.

"The bus was reversing all the way to scrapyard," the child's mother revealed. "Emma got such a terrible shock and ran to the front screaming that the bus was going to crash.

"She tried to jump off but fortunately the together stopped her."

After that surprising incident Emma's horror steadily grew. Within a few weeks her fear had transferred to her own family. Her parents had to bribe her out of the family van or drive in circles — but they couldn't go backward or the little girl would scream in fear.

"We just can't understand it," said Shirley, a nurse from Warkamsford, England. "Now if I have to get out of our car for any reason Emma has to sit in the front seat with the door open and her feet on the curb."

In fact, the worried mom says, her daughter even refuses to sit in a parked car because she is afraid it will roll backward.

Doctors have interviewed Miss Emma, but the frightened girl is at a loss to explain her sudden phobia. And although they've tried therapy and hypnosis, experts don't seem to find anything that helps her.

"In the past Emma has been on lots of vacations where we have been on buses and vans without any trouble," Shirley said. "Now it's impossible.

"I just hope the doctors can find the cause soon and help her overcome whatever is worrying her."

3 STOOGES MAKE QUEEN BUST A GUT!

NYUK NYUK! The Three Stooges have fans in high places — and palaces!

Cranky old Queen Elizabeth may be a sourpuss in public, but at night the rowdy royal loves to laugh and kick up her heels — while watching old Three Stooges movies!

"People would be shocked if they knew just how hooked Her Majesty has become on Larry, Moe and Curly," says a palace tattletale.

"You see her out in public looking like she's been chewing on a lemon and you think she must be a grumpy old bag. But the truth is, Elizabeth has her wacky side, too.

"She watches her Stooges tapes three or four times a week, and I've seen her literally holding her sides with laughter."

After catching a glimpse of them on British TV

"She got caught up in one of their old movies and laughed so hard she almost round up every Stooges tape they could find — and she's been watching them religiously ever since. Insiders are calling it Yuk-ingham Palace.

a servant messes up, she'll pretend to jab him in the eyes with two fingers just like Moe does — then she laughs like that's the funniest thing she's ever seen." — Special to Weekly World News

Jack Nicholson was both star and director of The Two Jakes, and the pressure of wearing two hats made Jumpin' Jack fall by his lid.

Insiders say Nicholson would blow up at the cast and crew, stomp off the set, then reappear hours later with no explanation. And there were times when the Chinatown sequel's script and budget woes kept frantic Jack awake for days on end.

"Jack was staying up all night," says one wrangler. "In the morning he showed up bleary and puffy-eyed from lack of sleep. Makeup didn't help and we just couldn't shoot him until he got some shut-eye." — Hollywood Herald

Guitar-picking Paul McCartney has changed his tune — and now figures the three remaining Beatles might be teaming up again after all.

Just weeks ago, Paul said he was sure the old gang would never make sweet music together "as long as John Lennon is dead."

Now hear this from a McCartney TV interview in London.

"There is a chance that we might get back together and just ease our way in with little projects. Maybe the three of us will play a bit of music together just for fun." — Miami Herald

Cruise offered to be paralyzed for role!

Hollywood heartthrob Tom Cruise plunged into his portrayal of crippled war vet Ron Kovic like a man possessed — offering to paralyze himself for days to bring realism to the role!

To prepare for his power-packed performance in Born on the Fourth of July, tough Tom spent months impressed in a wheelchair with Kovic by his side.

But eager director Oliver Stone asked the Timelord-ish to take his research one giant step further.

"At one point I asked him how he'd like someone with a sadistic streak would have paralyzed him for two days," Stone revealed. "Then the usual stage company said no because there was a slight chance of permanent paralysis.

"But the point is, he was willing to do it." — London Daily Express

Shocking medical FIRST!

WIFE DIES FROM HUBBY'S BAD BREATH!

PRETTY Michiko Kometo inhaled chemicals from her husband's breath and immediately went into shock.

HEARTBROKEN hubby Tatsuo Kometo tried to revive his dead wife after she collapsed from a fatal allergic reaction to his attempted kiss.

Woman, 34, suffers allergy attack when he tries to kiss her, say docs

A horrified husband made headlines when he killed his 34-year-old wife — with his bad breath!

Architect Tatsuo Kometo, 41, told authorities he was trying to kiss his wife Michiko when she suddenly staggered backward, fell to the floor unconscious and died. The death, caused by an extreme allergic reaction, was ruled an accident.

"Mrs. Kometo lapsed into immediate shock," said Kyoto, Japan, coroner Yasushi Sonobe in his official report. "Her heartbeat and respiration ceased within minutes despite her husband's desperate attempts to revive her."

By SUSAN HANSON

"Autopsy showed that she was severely allergic and was suffering an allergy attack at the time she died."

Doctors say future-of-three Kometo was an undiagnosed diabetic, and that a chemical exhaled by diabetics — acetone — was the cause of his wife's deadly reaction.

The chemical, which is commonly found in paints and is also widely used as a solvent, had caused Mrs. Kometo to suffer allergic attacks in the past, doctors say, and her reaction to acetone had become acute.

"When Mr. Kometo drew near to Mrs. Kometo to kiss her, he exhaled his acetone-laden breath in her face," said Dr. Sonobe. "Although there was only a small amount of the substance in his breath, I believe there was enough to trigger a massive allergy attack in Mrs. Kometo."

"She staggered backward, clutched at her throat and fell down. Mr. Kometo reports that she was purple. From lack of oxygen and stopped breathing almost immediately. Moments later her heart stopped and she was dead."

Friends and relatives of the grief-stricken architect say Kometo is deeply depressed over the death of his wife of 14 years.

"He blames himself," said a neighbor quoted in the Kyoto press. "He says he knew she was allergic to acetone because she'd had to quit her job in a paint factory years ago because of the allergy.

"He just feels he should have noticed the symptoms of diabetes and done something about it.

"If he had, he wouldn't have killed his wife with his bad breath."

Childproof your home

These quick 'n' easy tips will make it safer for tots!

Parents of toddlers can help make their home safe with a few easy steps:

- Put breakable objects out of reach.
- Install safety latches on drawers that contain dangerous or breakable things.
- Put grips at the tops and bottoms of stairs, but avoid narrow types that can trap a kid's head.
- Keep all storage areas locked.
- Store lawn mowers and sharp tools in a locked storage area.
- Rearrange closets so that only safe, sturdy objects are near the floor.

Nerdy gym students afraid to shower!

Make 'em drop their drawers — embarrassed or not!

I'm madder than a skunk in a perfume factory over a story that just crossed my desk saying our schoolkids don't even have to take showers after gym class these days.

Boy, I wanted to hold my nose just reading that one!

It seems this Milwaukee, Wis., gym teacher named John Irish is in hot water because he told a couple of nerdy kids they had to scrub themselves clean before they returned to the classroom.

And when the little brats said they were too shy to lather up with the other boys, the principal sent Coach Irish a nasty letter ordering him to lay off those smelly little creeps.

And that stinks, by God! Whatever happened to manliness as much as godliness?

I know nerdy kids are [illegible] and don't work up that much sweat in gym class anyway. But every kid should hit the showers whether he's exercised or not.

If they don't learn to take their pants off in front of other boys now, what the hell are they going to do when they join the Army — hold a bedsheet in front of themselves every time they take a shower with the guys?

The next thing you know, some bleeding heart is going to make us taxpayers build separate "FOR NERDS ONLY" showers in our schools.

Let's face it, if these little wimps don't like sharing a shower with football players, that's just too damn bad. A smelly sword or two can disrupt a history class faster than a live hand grenade.

But I've got a great idea how to make these blushing perverts down without making them burn into ivory.

We could issue them all little plastic skirts to wrap around their skinny waists so nobody could see what they're made of when they take off their pants.

That wouldn't cost taxpayers much — and we wouldn't have all these pocketpeek kids with calculators smirking up school ramparts all across America.

NEWS readers' flood of mail gives hope to sick girl

KAY Fitzgerald and her daughter Holly look over just one day's mail sent by NEWS readers.

'It's a miracle,' says happy mom

By CINDY O'NEIL

"I'm thrilled with all the beautiful cards and letters. Thanks, NEWS readers!"

Ailing Holly Fitzgerald is one happy little girl — to say the least.

In a January 7 NEWS story about the courageous 8-year-old's battle with serious heart problems, Holly said that she would love to get some letters. Her vast family of NEWS readers didn't let her down — and she was swamped with messages from every state in the union!

"I couldn't believe all of the cards and letters," said Holly's mom, Kay. "Holly just loved it. People all over the U.S. are praying for her."

Most Powerful Weight Loss Formula Ever To Be Discovered GUARANTEES Virtual

AUTOMATIC WEIGHT-LOSS

NO Cumbersome Calorie Counting • NO Atrocious Dieting
NO Unpleasant Hunger Pangs • NO Food Restrictions
NO Superhuman Effort • NO Painful Exercise

EVEN If You Eat Plenty All Day Long!

EVEN If You Tried Everything Else And Failed!

EVEN If You are 200 Pounds Overweight!

A Special Message To Those Millions Of Overweight Americans Who Have Tried For Years To Diet and Can't Lose Weight

Years of experimenting by American and European experts have ended with the discovery of an unusually powerful and high speed weight-loss program which is changing the concept of dieting in the U.S. And now, for the first time, the new discovery, called POWERSLIM™, has become available to everyone who has been struggling with an unbearable weight-loss problem for years.

GUARANTEED
World's Fastest
WEIGHT-LOSS METHOD!

POWERSLIM's unique new combination of ingredients wages a relentless 24-HOURS-A-DAY battle against excess weight. Including in the hardest to reach areas - waist, hips, thighs, buttocks, etc. - ALL DAY LONG! And the NON-STOP fat and fluid expelling action won't stop your alarming pounds 5 or 10 pounds short of your ultimate goal. NO! This time, you keep losing AUTOMATICALLY until ALL your excess weight is GONE! Without troublesome calorie-counting, without dreadful dieting, without intolerable hunger pangs. Without anything of the sort!

I've lost 46 pounds so far and never felt better!

I have to admit - I was skeptical when I first saw POWERSLIM™ in the store. I'd tried so many weight-loss aids that had failed me in the past. I was overweight, tired and depressed. I'd been to doctors, diet clinics, even hypnotists. Nothing ever worked for me. Sometimes I would lose a little, like 5 or 6 pounds - never more than 10 - and then gain it all back. I was frustrated. I was ready to give up. I almost became convinced that I was a person who would have to stay fat for life. Then came POWERSLIM and the miracle happened! I've lost 46 pounds so far and never felt better! And what's more, no crazy dieting. POWERSLIM took care of it all! — Carol A. Cornwallis, Ohio

Note: POWERSLIM™ is an extremely powerful and effective weight-loss aid. DO NOT EXCEED THE INDICATED DOSAGE! KEEP OUT OF REACH OF CHILDREN. Check with physician to make sure you are in normal health before starting this or any other weight-loss program. Actual amount of weight loss depends upon each individual and is not necessarily identical to the figures mentioned above. Reuse or recharging of POWERSLIM™ without proper knowledge or guidance of facts is not advised.

A WORLD SLIMMING RECORD!
LOSE
Up To 4 lbs. The First 6 Hours!
8 lbs. In 48 Hours!
20 lbs. The First Week!
This is AUTOMATIC WEIGHT LOSS at its best!

With POWERSLIM™ weight loss is not even just AUTOMATIC — it is INEVITABLE! Take it for yourself. Simply use POWERSLIM™ as directed and, even if you tried, you'll find it hard NOT to lose weight! THE SECRET IS POWERSLIM'S UNIQUE NEW COMBINATION OF INGREDIENTS. ANYONE using POWERSLIM™ MUST start losing a substantial amount of excess weight IMMEDIATELY! FROM THE VERY FIRST DAY! YOUR LIFE IS ABOUT TO CHANGE!

To you more than to anyone else, I know that ALL your excess weight (adjusted and truly young me totally and young inside) lady you have been dreaming about for years, will be THE thrill of a lifetime! For years, you have tried to diet again and again - only to temporarily lose a few pounds. No doubt you must feel pretty discouraged by now and keep asking yourself the following questions: "Why, with so many weight loss systems on the market, am I still overweight? Why, even though I do what I'm told, can't I lose weight? What is wrong with me?" To these questions, there is only one answer: What may work for others, just doesn't work for you! You need better than a common supermarket pill, a mail-order device, or some kind of celebrity diet if nothing has worked for you, what YOU need is an out-of-the-ordinary formula like POWERSLIM™ that uniquely works ALL BY ITSELF, and has been specifically developed to solve tough weight-loss problems, like yours.

Using POWERSLIM™ Is Like Putting Your Weight Loss On Automatic Pilot!

You don't have to count calories. You don't have to diet. You don't have to watch what you eat. You don't have to feel hungry. You don't have to exercise. Just remember to use POWERSLIM™ daily - that's all YOU have to do.

Through the years, we've come to understand the problems most overweight people are struggling with and what they are looking for: MAXIMUM RESULTS FOR MINIMUM EFFORT! Which is why we only offer solutions that respond to these criteria. And we truly believe that POWERSLIM™ is the best solution today to help solve tough weight-loss problems ONCE-AND-FOR-ALL!

To put your mind at peace, we DO fill orders as promptly as is humanly possible and since no weight-loss method on earth can work the same for everyone, not even a physician-proof method such as POWERSLIM™, we stand 100 percent behind anyone who may not be 100% delighted with POWERSLIM™.

In 6 [illegible]ears his beaut[illegible]l bride [illegible]me a bad-tempered blimp!

Fed-up hubby swaps nagging wife — for a hunting dog!

By JOE GRIGGS

Harassed hubby Dennis Wolf was so sick of hearing his beefy wife Brigitte needle and nag that he traded the old battle-axe away — for his neighbor's prize hunting dog!

"I have no idea why anybody would possibly want a hag like Brigitte but this guy [illegible] glad to get rid of her," delighted Dennis Wolf said.

"And I [illegible] the dog. I suggested we swap straight away and the guy was willing for it.

"Now I've got his dog — and he's got mine."

The married hubby says his woes began shortly after he and once-beautiful Brigitte tied the knot six years ago.

"All the time we were courting, she treated me like a prince," the mild-mannered mechanic told reporters in Essen, West Germany. "But the minute she got me to the altar, all that changed.

"Suddenly nothing I did was good enough for her. She quit her job as a secretary and stayed home all day, drinking beer, gossiping on the phone for hours and thinking up things to nag me about. By the time I got home at night, she was primed in the gills and ready to give me hell."

Over the years, Dennis endured in horror as hour-guzzling Brigitte's once-fabulous physique ballooned to a whopping 220 pounds of lard.

"And the fatter she got, the meaner she got," he recalled.

Then one day the hapless hubby leafed through the grapevine that his pesty woman was having an affair with bachelor Bernhard Becker, a 45-year-old retired trucker who lived down the street from them.

"I guess I should have been upset, but all I thought was, if that guy is dumb enough to want Brigitte permanently, maybe I can get rid of her and get that beautiful dog of his at the same time," Dennis said.

"So I went to him and proposed the exchange — and he really seemed excited about the idea.

"I never even spoke to Brigitte about it. I kept him around to set it up with her.

"Twenty-four hours later she'd packed up and gone, and I was off hunting with Hans. I've never been so happy."

Blubbery Brigitte has since filed for divorce, and a hearing is scheduled for March.

HAPPY HUNTER Dennis Wolf relaxes at home with his new hunting dog. Above he got in trade with a neighbor for his fat-ass bride. Dennis says he got the best end of the swap.

BRIGITTE Wolf in 1982. "She was stuffing her face back then too," says her husband.

New pill bottles are tattletales

An incredible new pill bottle makes it impossible to take more or less medicine than a doctor prescribes — because it records the date and time pills are removed.

More than half of all Americans who take prescription drugs take them incorrectly.

'Psychic' juror knows before trial suspects are guilty

A juror said he didn't need to hear testimony in a burglary trial to make up his mind that the suspects were guilty — his psychic powers told him so.

Psychic Medea Benedict told a prosecutor in Fayetteville, N.C. "In my professional opinion, the two defendants are guilty."

Benedict is listed in the phone book as a management expert and professional psychic.

TRAFFIC COP KILLED WHEN 400-LB. DRUNK FALLS ON HIM!

Jumbo motorist passes out during sobriety test — & flattens patrolman

By SCOTTY PAUL

A tipsy, 400-pound motorist passed out trying to walk a straight line during a drunk test — and squashed a cop!

"The poor officer was flatter than a pancake. It looked like a steamroller had pressed him right into the pavement," said shocked paramedic Gordon Cowles.

It took Cowles, his partner and three burly police officers to roll roly-poly Ray Beavan off motorcycle officer Aubrey Holden. Holden was dead on arrival at a hospital in Brisbane, Australia, of multiple injuries. "His ribs were crushed and pushed into his lungs," paramedic Cowles told the Daily Sun.

The historic accident occurred shortly after midnight when Officer Holden, known as a ticket-happy cop, stopped Motorist Beavan's car. "I had made a real good night of it at Kirksey's Pub and was heading home, or trying to,' Beavan told investigators. "I saw flashing lights in the rearview mirror and pulled over.

"The cop was arrogant as hell. He asked me how much I'd had to drink. I told him if I had to keep count, it would take all the fun out of drinking.

"He wasn't amused. He made me waddle over to the car. I leaned on it while he searched me. I was really pleased. I told him to take me in.

"He was giving me all sorts of orders.

"'Do this, do that.' Hell, I could hardly stand up. He was starting me off having drunk but treating me like I was sober.

"He told me to stand with my feet together and touch my nose with the forefinger of my left hand and with the forefinger of my right hand. I don't think I did very well on that test. I admitted I was drunk and told him to arrest me."

Beavan said he felt kind of wobbly but the cop was determined to make him touch the drunk test. "The cop told me to walk a straight line and told me to walk it," said Beavan.

About three steps down the line, Beavan said he looked over. "I heard the cop scream just before I passed out," he said.

Beavan said the next thing he knew, paramedics were waking him.

"That cop would be alive today if he had just arrested me for being drunk and taken me to the station," said Beavan. "I'm sorry it happened but I don't think it was my fault. I was drunk and passed out. Unfortunately, he got caught between me and the pavement."

Police have charged Beavan with drunk driving but as yet have filed no charge against him in connection with the officer's death.

Dead bag lady was filthy rich!

A small town was stunned when a garbage-picking spinster who dressed in rags died and left a $350,000 estate!

"She would make people think she had no money and make people feel sorry for her and feed her," said the 75-year-old Lois Grissom's niece. "She was always saying, 'One thing I don't get is no money!'"

The Piedmont, Ala., resident's money was divided among more than 20 relatives.

I need some sound advice for my noisy problem

Dear Dotti: I'm a healthy young man with an embarrassing problem — flatulence. I pass gas frequently and thunderously. People joke about it. But I've been threatened with disciplinary action at the office.

Even my neighbors complain because they can hear me pass gas through the walls of my apartment. I'm at my wit's end, Dotti. After hearing whoopee cushion jokes at work daily and being threatened at the office, I'd really appreciate some insight from you. — Windy in Pennsylvania

Dear Windy: If you've not breaking wind intentionally, you've got a dietary or medical problem and should see a doctor.

If you are eating beans on purpose, you've got a psychological problem and should see a shrink. Frankly, I think you're just showboating for attention.

Confidential

To Suzette in Naperville: Stop even thinking it, but of gals would give their eyeteeth to have Jo boyfriends.

To Scared in El Dorado: Tell your double chemo, but no thanks. Wigs are hot here.

To Bernie in Lexington: If an "A" means that much to you, go ahead and skate your professor. Just don't come crying to me when you can't look at yourself in the mirror.

To Mad in Baton Rouge: A redneck mustard was quite, too. Fortunately, I had a BB gun.

To Apprehensive in Riverton: Go ahead and do it. Personally, I prefer to eat my eggs all a place.

I'm poor but I couldn't be happier

Dear Dotti: This may seem like an unusual letter but I just want you and everybody to know I'm the happiest guy in the world. I don't have much money. I don't have a car.

All I've got is the sun in the morning and the moon at night and some of the best friends anyone could ever hope to have. God bless. — Happy in Toronto

Dear Happy: It doesn't take much to please some people and you're obviously one of them. I like my money, my car AND my friends. In fact, my goal in life is to get rich!

Shopper ate food but I kept my mouth shut

Dear Dotti: The other day I was in a grocery store and saw an old man pick up a bunch of grapes and eat them as he walked down an aisle. He dropped the stems on the floor and walked out without paying.

I didn't say anything. But now I think maybe I should have. What do you think? — Guilty in Gulf.

Dear Guilty: You should have screamed bloody murder right on the spot.

Where do you get off perhaps a thief? Things like you make me sick!

You're rude, crude and ugly too, Dotti

Dear Dotti: You constantly put people down and humiliate them — it's sick! They're not the ugly, rude, obnoxious, you're an honest artist.

You're selfish, mean, manipulative and ugly — certainly not beautiful like you're so fond of saying.

The only feature you've owned to are those you have a mean wisecrack for. Face it, Dotti. You don't care about anyone but yourself. I dare you to print this letter. — Sick in Stockton

Dear Sick: So what am I supposed to do — tell homosexuals who unintentionally spread AIDS that they're misunderstood? Advice seekers with cheating husbands to expect to be dumped by their men? Tell runaway daughters to get lost?

I'm not Ann Landers, baby — and I'm proud of it!

Oh where has my boyfriend gone?

Dear Dotti: My boyfriend said I used to be very happy but now he acts like he doesn't love me anymore. We used to go places but now we don't go anywhere. He used to come to my house every day but now I see him only once or twice a week. What gives, Dotti? Does my boyfriend still love me? — Sterling in Florida

Dear Sterling: Wake up and smell the coffee, girl. You're obviously been ditched!

Send all queries your letters — and tell us the truth, just care to be, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Ask the Countess

Will I ever find my runaway child?

Dear Countess: My 15-year-old son ran away from home and I'm worried sick. I know he didn't have any money when he left and I don't have any idea where he went. Please help me, Countess. Is my boy O.K.? Does he hate me? Will he ever come home again? — Frantic in Springfield

Dear Frantic: Your son is hungry and frightened but he's safe and regrets leaving home. He doesn't hate you — he loves you. But like most teenagers, he's confused.

I know it won't be easy, but give him a little time to get a grip on himself. I see him returning home before March 1st.

In a superpower pact more secret than the A-bomb raid on Hiroshima [redacted] the Normandy invasion, President Bush and Premier Gorbachev have agreed to create a combined Star Wars armada — to defend planet [redacted] if it's attacked by space aliens!

[redacted] history-making mutual [redacted]ense alliance was confirmed in an "eyes-only" Kremlin briefing paper passed to a Western journalist by a top Soviet official unha[redacted] with Gorbachev's revolutionary glasnost policies.

The pact calls for the "immediate" mustering of all U.S. and Soviet laser-armed satellites, nuclear missiles, the Stealth bomber force and manned and unmanned spacecraft — including our Shuttles.

They will be combined into a powerful Star Wars armada only named Grand Slam, which, the briefing paper declared, will be capable of repelling an assault on planet Earth by alien invaders.

The superpower push for [redacted] covenant comes on the [redacted] 1987 "agreement of intent" reached by the Soviet leader and then-President Reagan, which failed to provide a timetable for the actual implementation of a mutual defense force.

The NEWS revealed the full details of that highly [redacted] in an exclusive report published on its cover of April 14, 1987.

The need to implement that pact was prompted by a frightening upsurge in worldwide UFO activity that has resulted in hundreds of confirmed sightings of overflights and landings.

The Reagan-Gorbachev agreement and the sharp rise in UFO activity followed on the wake of an incredible alien encounter in the skies over Alaska on November 1986. Aleutian air traffic controllers tracked an identical starship as it hovered near a Japan Air Lines 747 jetliner.

The pilot described the giant UFO as "bigger than two aircraft carriers" and controllers said they managed to plot the alien craft on their radars.

Since that astonishing event, dozens of UFO sightings are being reported daily from the far corners of the globe and experts believe the increased activity may mean planet Earth is earmarked for an invasion by alien forces. Newspapers in every corner of the globe have featured photographs of the extraterrestrial spacecraft.

"We have strong reason to believe there is a definite routine being carried out by what must be recognized as spacecraft from another world," the briefing paper stated. [redacted] reports of [redacted] sightings [redacted] throughout [redacted]

Creep punches girl to death at dance!

A conceited creep punched out pretty Penny Laing at a disco because she wouldn't dance with him — and the powerful blow killed her.

The attractive 19-year-old woman died of brain damage after being hit with a vicious uppercut as she walked from the dance floor.

By JACK ALEXANDER

"It was a totally unwarranted and cowardly attack on a pretty young girl who was simply out to enjoy herself," said Police Detective John May.

Penny and her pals had gone to the disco in Newcastle upon Tyne, England, which was packed with 1,500 people.

"We believe the burly young man, who stood about 5-foot-8, plugged her in the face because she wouldn't dance with him," said Det. May. Penny was punched as she and her friends made their way single file across the crowded dance floor.

The surprise blow sent her tumbling to the floor as another man grabbed her cowardly attacker and punched him.

Friends rushed Penny to the Royal Victoria Infirmary after realizing she was badly hurt by the blow.

She died an hour later.

Cops are looking for a burly young man in his 20s.

Frog business jumping

A million croaking frogs hop to the groovy beat of rock 'n' roll every day while waiting to be shipped to the dining tables of Europe.

"Happy music is today music," says Hasan Ahmedien, a 38-year-old Egyptian businessman who has been dubbed the "Frog Prince."

Hasan has boosted Egypt into the big leagues of frog-exporters after China, Indonesia, Bangladesh and India.

He turns the rock music on his reservoir of frogs so that by the time the pickup trucks arrive, the frogs are beginning to jump to the beat's throb.

"It has made a huge difference to the business," said Hasan, who ships live frogs to eager European buyers.

Nice guys and gals finish first in love!

Surprise! Looks and money aren't what attracts folks to the opposite sex — a caring and considerate nature does the trick, according to a recent poll.

The survey also revealed that 82 percent believe in love at first sight, but 89 percent feel a relationship based on it won't last. And 80 percent think society places too much emphasis on physical attractiveness.

Those polled said the following is what appeals them to a member of the opposite sex:

- Being caring and considerate, 78 percent.
- A good sense of humor, 65 percent.
- Having compatible interests, 64 percent.
- Being a good conversationalist, 57 percent.
- Intelligence, 55 percent.
- Being a good sex partner, 38 percent.
- Being romantic, 49 percent.

Fat cat speeder fined $11,400

Big shot Kaiser Keith was slapped with a whopping $11,400 fine after cops caught him doing 75 m.p.h. in a 30 m.p.h. area.

The 41-year-old businessman was busted while driving his BMW in Helsinki, Finland. And then he got the bad news!

In Finland, fines are assessed on the basis of how much money the speeder makes. The more he makes the more it costs him. The minimum fine is $5.

Authorities based Keith's $11,400 fine on his 1987 income.

Jilted beau wanted to get even with ex-girlfriend!

Hit man hired to inject woman with AIDS virus, say cops

By PETE COOKE

A jilted lover got even with his girlfriend for dumping him by hiring a hit man to inject her with the deadly AIDS virus, authorities said.

Charles Crewse, 58, of Springfield, Missouri, was jailed on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder in the bizarre plot to kill Karen McBride, his 36-year-old former girlfriend.

According to police investigators, Crewse, an insurance mutt, offered to pay Joseph Hopkins $1,000 to help him kill Miss McBride, who lives in St. Charles.

Springfield police spokesman Sgt. Dan Wilson said Crewse and Hopkins had the clotted cooking concentrated blood from a hospital. "The plan was to take some AIDS-infected blood from a Springfield hospital that treats AIDS patients," Sgt. Wilson said. The bizarre scheme unraveled before any contaminated blood was stolen because Hopkins got cold feet and investigators [illegible] and went to St. Charles, where the victim lives, and told her everything that he and Crewse had discussed," said Sgt. Wilson.

Miss McBride called the police and Crewse was arrested on conspiracy charges. He was held on $100,000 bond after he was picked up by St. Charles County sheriff's deputies and was transferred to Springfield to await trial. No charges were filed against Hopkins.

Right hook, wrong nose!

Clash: British boxer Ian Honeywood, right, landed a punch on the face of Canadian Johnny Kalkhoven and wound up punching himself in the nose. And Honey got woes for Honeywood, who lost a decision in the bout in Kitchener, Ontario.

Cab thieves leave big tip

Three people hopped down a cab, bopped the driver and sped away. But the news wasn't all bad for cabbie Ole Skovlund.

When police found his abandoned cab 25 miles away, the full $32 fare and a $64 tip was tucked in a pocket on the door.

"Finding the money was surprising to say the least," a police department spokesman in Odense, Denmark, said.

MEDICAL BREAKTHROUGH!

Gallbladders through belly buttons

Surgeons have a new and less expensive way to remove gallbladders — through the patient's belly button.

Using a long, tubular microscope and a laser for a scalpel, docs pull the organ out through a three-eighths inch incision in the belly button.

The operation can be done on an outpatient basis and at less than half the $7,000 cost of conventional surgery.

Docs believe the new form of surgery may be useful for about 80 percent of patients suffering from gallstones, the buildup of fat deposits inside the gallbladder that can cause extreme pain.

Save money with lip-smacking recipes that taste like the real thing

HOW TO MAKE YOUR OWN FAST FOOD —AT HOME!

By SUSAN JAMISON

You don't have to wait in line at your favorite fast food restaurant anymore — because a fantastic little cookbook will let you whip up those lip-smacking dishes right at home.

St. Clair, Mich., housewife Gloria Pitzer has already sold hundreds of thousands of copies of her cookbook, Secret Fast Food Recipes, available from Secret Recipes Limited, St. Clair, Mich. 48079, for $7. She says her dishes taste just like the real thing.

"These are knock-your-socks recipes," Mrs. Pitzer said.

"To come up with the ingredients, I go to a taste panel and build from it. I don't know what the fast food folks are putting into their dishes and I don't want to know — all I want to do is to reproduce the proper taste."

Here are some of the biggest ripoffs from Gloria's cookbook, easy-to-make recipes you can prepare at home for half the money.

Big Bucket-in-the-Sky Fried Chicken

(Tastes like Kentucky Fried)

3 lbs. fryer parts, cut small
Mixture of 2 cups flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, ½ cup buttermilk and 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 pint lite salad oil
½ cup Crisco solid shortening
1 cup milk
½ cup flour, 1 tsp. salt, ½ tsp. pepper, ½ tsp. paprika, ½ tsp. powdered sage, ½ tsp. pepper

Wipe chicken dry, then brush with buttermilk and dredge in flour mixture, covering all sides evenly. Refrigerate several hours in sealed container. Then 1½ hours before serving, melt oil and shortening together until melted. Put enough oil in skillet to cover bottom 1 inch deep and add more when necessary. Dip the mixture-covered chicken in milk, then roll the pieces in the flour mixture, shut off stove and place chicken side down in hot oily skillet.

Brown until golden, place in shallow baking pan skin side up. Spoon remaining milk over pieces after all pieces have been fried. Bake in 375-degree oven covered loosely with foil until pieces are fork tender, about 40 minutes. Take foil off and bake another 8 to 10 minutes until crispy, basting with milk and pan drippings every few minutes.

Serves 3 to 4

Colonel's Coleslaw

(Tastes like Col. Sanders' slaw)

6 cups shredded-thin pieces of cabbage
2 medium peeled onions, grated on largest hole of vegetable grater
1 pepper, the size of an egg, chopped
1 tbsp. sugar
About ½ cup of buttermilk
1 pint mayonnaise
1 oz. carton sour cream dip mix
2 tbsps. bottled Italian dressing
1 tbsp. sugar

Reserve one cup of cabbage, mix the rest with carrots and onion and refrigerate. Mix reserved cabbage with enough buttermilk to submerge it, add 1 tbsp. sugar, cover and refrigerate. One hour before serving, combine buttermilk cabbage mixture with other cabbage mixture, tossing thoroughly. Whisk together last four ingredients, add to cabbage mixture, mix and seal in plastic bag. Chill. Makes 4 servings.

Big Match Attack

(Tastes like McDonald's secret Armour burger)

2 sliced pieces, bread, cheese, onions, pickles, mustard and ketchup
1 cup Miracle Whip Salad Dressing
¼ cup sweet, 2-inch dressing
8 oz. sweet pickle relish
1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. onions
1 tsp. dry mustard seeds

Stir all ingredients for sauce together with spoon. Makes 2 cups sauce that will keep for a week in the refrigerator.

To make a Big Match, your beef patties in a bit of oil on a hot griddle, both sides to medium-well.

Place patties each on bottom halves of buns.

To each of these add a few tablespoons of Special Sauce, then add remaining ingredients.

Wednesday's Baked Potatoes

(Tastes like Wendy's delicious spuds)

Chili & Cheese

Warm a 10-oz. can chili and mix very gently on medium heat. Fill piping hot opened baked potatoes and top with some shredded Cheddar cheese.

Sour Cream & Chive

You suppose 2 tbsps. mayonnaise, 3 oz. carton sour cream dip and 6 oz. sour cream. Fold in 2 tbsps. dry minced chives, and spoon over baked potatoes.

Ka-Boom! Volcano blast equaled 2 million A-bombs!

The most powerful volcanic eruptions in history occurred 1,700 years before the birth of Christ — with a force equal to two million Hiroshima-type A-bombs, scientists say.

And the effects of the powerful explosion could have been the source of Plato's story of Atlantis, up to head civilizations that sank into the sea, say researchers.

Experts date the eruption on the Aegean island of Thera — now called Santorini — by using Chinese historical records, evaluating tree-ring dating and carefully studying tree rings.

Experts think Atlantis may have been the Minoan empire on Crete, which was destroyed by tidal waves caused by the eruption.

New York has a school — just for gays!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Students attending classes at a unique New York City school are either gay or transsexual — and 75 percent of them are dying of AIDS.

More than half the boys and girls at the Harvey Milk School have been beaten and threatened by other kids. Many of our students had dropped out of school because they feared for their lives," said instructor Fred Goldhaber. The school, named after a slain San Francisco gay supervisor, has been operating on the fringe of New York's Greenwich Village since 1985.

On a typical day, 15 to 20 kids around classes out of a total enrollment of 45. About one-third have already attempted suicide and 30 of them are infected with the deadly AIDS virus.

"We're talking about kids who have been humiliated and ostracized and for whom there is no other place to go," said assistant teacher Joyce Hunter.

One 15-year-old boy dropped out of high school after a physical ed teacher made fun of him and made him sit in the girls' gym.

A 14-year-old lesbian quit school saying that she felt safer hanging out on street corners.

The school's only instructors, Goldhaber and Barb Beasley, are paid by the city.

Private and public money is used for all the other school activities.

Eight students have graduated from the school and several of them have gone on to college.

Fifteen to 20 have gone back to public schools.

"I think people have come to realize these kids would fall through the cracks if it weren't for a place like this," said Miss Hunter.

"They've grown up in a world that says they're less than other people. They don't feel good about who they are," she said.

Con goofs and escape plan is down the drain

A convict's escape plan went down the toilet when debris from a tunnel he was digging clogged it up.

Randy Mellum had been digging through the double-layered cinderblock and brick wall of the jail in St. Paul, Minn.

"The berms are the main culprits," who discovered what was clogging the plumbing, said Sheriff's Lt. Mike Shanley.

Mellum, 33, was jailed on a burglary charge stemming from a killing that took place while he was a fugitive from prison on a robbery charge, authorities said.

THE LITTLEST MARINE

SPIRIT of the Iwo Jima flag is in Vicki White.

Crippled 6-year-old girl is a proud leatherneck

By JACK ALEXANDER

Tiny Vicki White can barely sit up and her bones are as brittle as a dried leaf — but she's a proud member of the U.S. Marine Corps.

The courageous 6-year-old may not have the strength of a Marine, but she has shown true grit in dealing with a crippling disease.

Most of her young life has been spent in splints after fracturing her skull, arms, legs and back hundreds of times.

She suffers from a rare form of osteogenesis imperfecta that makes her bones break like toothpicks.

"In being Marines each of us must face constant physical challenges," said Marine Sgt. Bill Roberts. "But none of those can compare with what Vicki meets each day."

The gutsy girl, who lives in Shawnee, Kans., was feeling mighty blue because the disease would prevent her dream of being a Marine from coming true.

"I was disappointed because my daddy and grandma and grandpa were Marines," said Vicki, who can sing the entire Marine Corps anthem.

To soothe her and daughter, Maggie White took Vicki to the nearby 6th Marine Corps District post to pick up a souvenir.

But the Marine Corps heard about Vicki and decided to make her an honorary member, complete with uniform.

"It's a matter of the Marines taking care of their own," said Sgt. Roberts.

Faced with Vicki's dismay at not being able to march in the parade, Roberts promised that the Marines would carry her in a wheelchair.

"Vicki is the spirit of the Marine Corps," said Roberts. "She's got more guts than most of us."

TINY-BUT Vicki White, who is bravely fighting a rare bone disease, stands for inspection.

Vicki was determined. Now with the aid of rods in her legs and long steel bracers, she can stand up and do whatever she wants. that's got her into the Marines."

AT BASE! Vicki rejoices with her mom, Maggie White.

You can fall in love in 30 seconds!

By SUSAN JAMISON

You can fall in love in just 30 magical seconds, a fascinating study shows!

All it takes is a glance or gesture to bring Cupid on the run, according to researcher Dr. Christiane Doemer of the Max Planck Institute in Munich, Germany. The scientist studied hundreds of men and women during the first moments of their meetings and found that 60 to 70 percent exhibited "signs of flirtation" almost immediately.

"We found that within 30 seconds — and frequently even sooner — you could tell from the couple's body language whether or not they would soon hit it off."

Dr. Doemer and colleague Dr. Karl Grammer found that similar body signals were observed almost immediately. A woman who likes a man will lean forward, smile and relax her body. Then she'll toss her hair and place one of her hands behind her neck. She'll also ply him with questions.

The males who are attracted to a woman will become rather repeat. They will for signs that the female is interested before moving in.

In the initial stages of love, it's the women — not the men

. . . and does say the gal always makes the first move

— who make the moves. Besides the nine-area noted by Dr. Doemer other signals are:

- Displaying open palms.
- Tilting her head forward when talking, and
- Touching a man on the arm, hair or knee.

"What's remarkable is how little men know about these techniques that so-ooozes that is waaaay it's a well-known ritual.

"The opening line has as much nothing to do with it," said Dr. Timothy Perper of Philadelphia's Institute and author. "The first step in the approach. The moves women use to physically get up and [illegible]

Crippled logger spends week atop 100-foot pole!

BRAVE BID Chapman hauled himself and his wheelchair up this 100-foot pole.

. . . to get bigwigs to review his chintzy $50 pension

By MARTHA ATKINS

A crippled logger finally got the attention of bureaucratic bigwigs who refused to review his paltry disability pension — by spending a week perched atop a 100-foot-tall pole in his wheelchair!

Bill Chapman, 47, had been battling for years to get his case reviewed but had no luck. Since injuring his back and stomach in a 1985 fall, he'd been receiving only a measly $50 a month in disability.

He came up with the gotta-get-long scheme to draw attention to his fight. The courageous Canuck dug himself and his wheelchair in the top of the wooden pole at the Pacific National Exhibition fairgrounds in Vancouver, British Columbia, and waited for the fireworks to begin.

He'd been on top of the pole for just three days when the British Columbia labor ministry stepped in and said it would look into things.

"We are already arranged for a new medical examination for Mr. Chapman," said Hilda Wilkinson, director of the workers' advocacy branch. "We'll take the other look at his case and see what happens."

WRESTLING KING HULK HOGAN TO RETIRE!

Hulk Hogan

By BONNIE BAINER
Wrestling Correspondent

World champion [redacted] Hogan will retire before the end of the summer and [redacted] to Hollywood!

The Hulkster's closest friends [redacted]ve confided to me after six years as the undisputed champion of the World Wrestling Federation that he's going [redacted] [redacted] 24-inch biceps to the silver screen full-time.

He's being courted by high-powered Walt Disney Studios, which was impressed by his smash hit from last year, No Holds Barred, and is convinced he can become the next Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Whatever the explanation, the 308-pound Hulkster hasn't been himself lately. He has disappointed his faithful fans by missing several shows and showing up late for others.

Say it ain't so, Hulkster! Quitting the ring to go into show business at this point would be like giving a boot in the face to all your loyal Hulkamaniacs.

Speaking of the Hulkster, there's no truth to the rumor that he's the twin brother of Bruce "The Barber" Beckman. But they do own a business together — a fast-food chicken restaurant in Los Angeles.

Randy Savage may be the Macho Man Dream, but his new manager, Sapphire, is actually LIVING the American Dream. Six months ago Sapphire was a retail clerk in a secondhand clothing store in North St. Louis. Today she's one of the most massive figures, in or out of sports, in professional wrestling.

She not only advises Randy on how to get the upper hand over the Big Bam Man and his manager Slick, but also gets a hefty share of Randy's purses. "Don't call me fat," says curvy Sapphire. "I'm a big woman, and I'm proud of it."

The Big Bam Man, by the way, is a former prison guard.

After "The Genius" Roberts was fined $10,000 and sentenced to 10 years probation for beating up a man in Daytona Beach, Fla., after an argument that began in a bar.

But his pet snake, Damien, didn't even get a slap on the tongue.

Antonio Inoki — the most famous wrestler in Japan who fought world boxing champ Muhammad Ali on worldwide closed-circuit TV in 1976 — went 10th pro this year — and is now a respected member of the Japanese Parliament. His fellow politicians already have to sit through his bouts, so they're not quite sure what to do with him.

Lovely Buddy Rose

Hulk Hogan and The Ultimate Warrior beat The Genius and Mr. Perfect when the Hulkster legdropped The Genius — putting him out for the count in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Bobby "The Brain" Heenan and his Colossal Connection of Andre the Giant and Haku simply annihilated Demolition to win the WWF tag-team title in Huntsville, Ala. Smash was never even able to tag in his partner, Ax.

The Powers of Pain were disqualified in their recent match against The Rockers because of interference by Mr. Fuji, but they proceeded to triple-team Rockers Shorty Smalley so brutally that the referee had to call for the bell to save Shorty from serious injury.

Sir Oliver successfully defended his NWA world championship after wrestling Humongous Bobby Eaton with Jim Cornette's tennis racket in Gainesville, Ga.

The Ultimate Warrior got revenge on Rikki Brown by pinning Canada's self-proclaimed strongest man and dropping him on his ugly face in Boston, Mass.

Randy Buddy Piper waited the ideal cage first to get the upper hand over Bad News Brown in Detroit, Mich.

Dumb crook tried [redacted] use stolen loot to pay his bail, say cops

Gregory Ross proved he isn't a brain surgeon when he tried to bail himself out of jail with $400 in change — after he was charged with robbing vending machine coin boxes!

Cops in Portsmouth, R.I., said the 25-year-old suspect asked for a backpack in which he had stashed the change and a set of keys to vending machine coin boxes.

Ross allegedly is a member of a four-state theft ring whose members each raped up to $1,000 a day from vending machines.

Of course, the backpack was searched before Ross got his hands on it. Cops said they found about $400 in change and a set of keys to vending machine coin boxes.

Speedy justice

Judge opens drive-up window!

A Pennsylvania judge has come up with the perfect solution for folks who don't have time to go to court — a drive-through window for speedy justice!

At Dennis Junior Paul Hadnett's new office in Weatherly, people can pay fines, file complaints for small claims court and even get married — all from the cozy comfort of their car.

"Everybody thought it was a joke, but it's working," said Justice Hadnett.

The drive-through court is located in a former bank building. Justice Hadnett said that when he moved in, the building's owner offered to take out the window but he declined to keep it.

"It's convenient for me because it's a lot of people I don't have to see in the office, and it's convenient for them because they don't have to see me," he said.

The speedy justice says the only ceremonial duties he can't perform at the drive-through window are preliminary arraignments and hearings, and summary trials.

And he said that once he did open married someone from his official entryway.

"I had a couple step and ask about it," he said. "The groom was ready, but the woman wasn't too much into it. I didn't want to get her angry so I told them to come inside."

'It's like a brass band marching through your living room,' say homeowners

DING-DONG!

Neighbors raising hell over church's loud bell!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Angry homeowners are suing a church because they say its ear-splitting musical chimes ruin their kids' naps, scare their pets and invade their privacy.

"It's like a brass band marching through your living room, your bedroom, your kitchen six times a day, 365 days a year," said Vaughan Pritchett.

Pritchett and two of his neighbors have asked a court in Nashville, Tenn., to make the Hillsboro United Methodist Church tone down its chimes.

The noise climbs sky and play hymns at 8 a.m., noon, 5 and 6 p.m. according to Pritchett.

"The chimes play from two to five minutes each of those six times. It's like having a grandfather clock with drunken speakers put in the middle of your home without your permission," he said.

Pritchett and two of his neighbors who live within 200 feet of the church asked the church to adjust the chimes to be quiet.

The electronically controlled chimes strike the hour six times a day and play hymns three times a day, says the Rev. Stephen Smith, pastor of the church.

"We have had a dozen people who live nearby to the church to come [illegible] who live the closest," he said.

Pritchett is a Presbyterian who doesn't belong to the church but says his son goes to the Scout meetings there.

"I'm a reasonable man, but those chimes are way too loud," he said. The suit, filed in Davidson County Chancery Court, says the church is supposed to turn off the lights and turn up the heat when it snows.

The church sits on the side of a hill and Pritchett said his house is a mile or two below the church.

"When the leaves fall down from the upper hill, what's down on the valley floor ends," said Pritchett.

"The church has elected us to get used to it, but we don't want to get used to it unless we have to."

HOMEOWNER Vaughan Pritchett and two of his neighbors want to quit a nearby church to have them fix chimes which play six times a day

WARNING FOR WIVES

Wives watch out for other women — particularly your best friend — because she might steal your husband!

About 20 percent of women surveyed by a marriage counseling organization admitted that they would steal their best friend's mate or at least sleep with him.

"When a woman is deceived by both her friends and her husband it leaves her devastated," said Zelda Wesbrook.

"I just wish women could stick together more and not betray their friends."

New for lonely mutts — a doggone video!

Now, for the pooch who has everything, there's a doggie video designed to keep Rover glued to the tube.

The home entertainment for hounds is the brainchild of Harley Tobermann, a Minneapolis, Minn., businessman, who got the idea for his new product from his own dog's reaction to videotapes of her chasing cars on a friend's farm.

"Every time she saw that tape, she'd start barking furiously," said Tobermann, who has produced a 60-minute video that includes a romp through city streets filmed at pooch level, a trip to a park and a visit to a barnyard full of animals. Stereo sound reproduces the jingle of a pet collar, the whishing of grass, the crunch of dog biscuits and slurping drinking noises.

Girl, 13, hired pals to execute her father

A divorced dad moved from the city to the suburbs with his teenage daughter to escape crime — and she had him murdered because she didn't want to move.

. . . BECAUSE SHE DIDN'T WANT TO MOVE!

Ronnie Say, 47, was brutally stabbed, beaten and strangled in his home by Berto Talaverna, 15, and his cousin, Juan Valdez, 13.

Black-haired Michelle Say, 15, admitted she could never forgive her father for forcing her to leave her friends.

"She hated her dad for moving from the Bay area to Manteca, Calif.," said Police Detective Sam Phillips. "I don't think her father realized how traumatic moving was to her."

Within weeks after moving to Manteca, Michelle met Talaverna and they began hitting many days she would skip school and sneak him into the house after her father went to work.

Neighbors saw him sneak in one day and reported to Michelle's dad. His displeased him even more when he told her to stop seeing Talaverna, according to trial testimony.

"She decided then that her father had to die," said Det. Phillips. "She asked Talaverna to do it."

Murderous Michelle waited until her dad slept in with the flu one day and let Talaverna and Valdez into her home.

The treacherous teen was with several of her seventh grade friends at a popular hangout when her unsuspecting father came home.

He was attacked almost immediately by the two boys. Cops testified he was literally beaten to a pulp.

Talaverna, screaming in triumph, stabbed Say with a butcher knife and mutilated his body after the murder with a fireplace poker, stabbed with a butcher knife and mutilated.

Michelle discovered the body later and quickly became a suspect when police talked to her school chums. "She had been telling friends she wanted him dead," said Det. Phillips.

Michelle was convicted of soliciting murder and the two boys were found guilty of murder.

All three are serving 16-year sentences in the California Youth Authority center.

Brave cancer mom risks death to save her unborn baby!

Linda is relying on her trust in God, a healthy diet and vitamin supplements to survive

Brave Linda Babcock has a killer cancer but she's refusing radiation treatments that might help her survive — because she doesn't want to harm her unborn baby.

The Clinton, Ill., housewife has already outlived her doctor's grim predictions that she would die before Christmas. And she vows she'll beat the fast growing lung cancer that is ravaging her body to deliver a healthy baby in March.

"We and my husband want this child more than anything," Linda, 28, told The NEWS. "They wanted me to have radiation and chemotherapy but they told me I'd have to abort the baby.

"The doctors said I'd die without treatment, but even with treatment I'd be lucky to live a year. I made the decision to trust in God instead."

By SUSAN JAMISON

Incredibly, Linda has had no treatment for her deadly cancer since August. Instead she has relied on a vitamin rich diet and special dietary supplements she buys at health food stores.

She says that her healthy natural diet and her faith in God have kept her cancer from growing.

"After starting my diet I felt better in three days," Linda recalled. "I couldn't believe it. I get X rays every month and my tumor hasn't grown at all in the past three months.

"I'm feeling fine. I'm a miracle. And the baby is doing real well, too."

Linda, who has two teenaged girls and an 8-year-old son, was married a year and a half ago to George Babcock, a power plant technician. The couple dreamed of having a baby and found out last summer that Linda was expecting.

But the soon-to-be mom began complaining of shortness of breath and lack of energy and went to see her doctor. When an X ray revealed she had lung cancer and had only a few months to live, she decided to decide the illness for her baby's sake.

The ailing woman switched to a diet of fresh carrot juice, fresh broccoli, cauliflower and baked potato and cut out all sugar and red meat. She eats vegetarian meals and takes supplements of beta carotene, selenium, calcium, zinc and B vitamins that she says are a healthy food store.

"I'm doing fine," she said with a proud interpreter. "The diet is working fine.

"I'm thinking positive and I'm building up my immune system.

"After all, it's not the doctors that heal us, it's our own bodies that heal. I'm putting my faith in God and in nature — and it's working.

"My baby is going to be born healthy and I'm going to be around for a long time to look after him."

She refuses lifesaving chemotherapy to protect her child

Girl had only 1-in-a-billion chance to live — and won!

By CINDY O'NEIL

Little Melanie Quigley made medical history when she survived a horrifying blood disease that has killed every previous victim within weeks!

Doctors said her chances for survival was only one in a billion — but incredibly, she made it!

"I don't know how we got through it," said Melanie's mom Sheila.

The 9-year-old girl's agonizing ordeal began as a simple stomachache but within hours she was paralyzed, her speech slurred and the deadly disease had invaded her brain.

The sick kids at the desperate doctors wrung their hands.

Suspecting a liver disorder, doctors in her hometown of Cove, England, sent her to a hospital in London for more tests. There doctors finally diagnosed Melanie's blood disorder as hemophagocytosis.

"When Melanie came to us she was dying," said Dr Georgina Micah Vergani. "I had only seen six similar cases in 15 years and each was fatal. The disease is so rare I contacted colleagues I knew who had experience with it. I finally decided to treat it like cancer even though it isn't." The doctor's gamble paid off. After just two chemotherapy treatments Melanie began to get better and soon she was out of the woods.

"It's a miracle," said Melanie's mom.

BEWARE OF BULLY BOSSES!

Heartless supervisors hazardous to your health, warn experts

By MARTHA ATKINS

If you've got a mean boss, watch out — because their bullying ways could destroy you, says an expert!

"A mean boss can destroy you," said Joseph Treiber, a psychotherapist in West Palm Beach, Fla. "Any boss who doesn't deal with workers fairly or calls them names is guilty of psychological abuse and it's definitely harmful."

But with the dog-eat-dog competition in today's hard-nosed world, it looks like those tough guys are here to stay, say experts. The following are just some ways in which bullies like terrorize their employees.

● Don't play fair. These guys change the rules on you constantly. As soon as you get close to the top, you'll be told you haven't met the requirements. Or you'll be told you've been doing a great job, but you're not going to get a promotion because you're not a team player.

● Aggressive behavior. Tough bosses are constantly shoving, belittling, name calling, and sometimes even hitting employees. For example, they may raise their voice to you 10 percent in the morning, even if it's usually unheard.

● Cost cutting. These misers go overboard to cut costs. They'll freeze salaries and run budgets, and even make you buy your own coffee, and if you don't agree on the price it can be your last cup at your desk.

● Chronic. Bosses have them! They'll go over a budget line by line and want to know where every single penny went.

● Intimidation. Really heartless supervisors resort to abusive and insulting language to intimidate their subordinates.

"You can file a formal complaint against them to get them fired or you can quit your job," said Treiber.

Boy's finger chopped off in cafeteria

Schoolboy Carlo Zucco's buddies fainted when a window slammed down on his finger and chopped it off as he stood in a cafeteria line. But hungry Carlo, 10, calmly picked up his sandwich before going for help.

Police in Brindisi, Italy, said the famished teen polished off his lunch while teachers scrambled to retrieve his finger and whisk him to doctors. Surgeons successfully sewed the digit back on.

YOUR WEEKLY HOROSCOPE
Feb. 13-Feb. 19

By Countess Sophia Sabah

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 20

This could be a very important week for you. Money from an unexpected source, enough to make a few of your long held dreams come true, could materialize.

A spur-of-the-moment decision brings smiles from your true love, and congratulations from cronies.

Expect a telephone call from an influential person offering you an opportunity which will require serious thought before accepting, but this could be just what you've always wanted.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Although the week gets off to a good start you can expect your high spirits to take a nosedive when frustrations with family members and money woes rule the day.

You can capitalize on creative skills at this time if you'll invest more of your spare time in developing them.

Also, advertising your product in a local paper will bring the desired results.

Your mate is more cooperative and loving on the weekend.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Several opportunities arise this week, and a meeting with old friends puts you in touch with persons who can be helpful.

Make money work for you on Wednesday when whatever you do brings a profit. You are in for an exciting time.

Attention should be given to matters of security, perhaps the installation of a car alarm.

An unexpected cash bonus comes your way, and an unexpected invitation spices up the weekend.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

During this time period, the accent is on investigations and fields, taking care of health matters and domestic problems.

There will be outrageous gifts for those involved with a dedicated life, who feel they're getting somewhere fast and are anxious to make a change.

Midweek, you can expect friends to play an important role in your life, bringing you personal happiness.

Expect an important letter.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Energetic and upbeat, you'll feel full of self-confidence this week. You're bound to be successful in any undertaking.

In the mood to shop? Bargains abound! You can give yourself a more glamorous image, change your style.

However, please keep in mind that it's never wise to go overboard. Be warned against stress, the truly bizarre.

The weekend finds you and your beloved spending a delightful day together.

Cheating wife's confession to shrink mailed to her hubby

— and now they're getting a divorce!

By JACK ALEXANDER

A cheating wife told a shrink the sordid details of her extramarital affairs — never dreaming a copy of her confession would be sent to her husband.

Karlene Dillon has sued a hospital and an insurance company for $5 million, claiming they wrecked her six-year marriage by sending the nasty note to her hubby.

Mrs. Dillon, of Loveland, Ohio, and her husband Terry are now in the middle of a divorce, but in 1987 she went to the emergency room of the University of Cincinnati Hospital seeking cure for compulsive promiscuity, told her suit.

She told a psychiatrist about her sexual history and her fears that her husband would learn about her activities, according to the suit.

Two months after Mrs. Dillon had talked to the shrink, her hubby got a letter from the Liberty Mutual Life Insurance Co. asking for information needed to process the hospital's claim for payment. Included with the psychiatrist's notes of Mrs. Dillon's visit.

"The hospital was bound by the confidentiality between the physician and patient," said lawyer Julius Sanks.

"It was improper for the hospital to send her records to the insurance company and, at her receiving them, it was improper for them to send them on," said Sanks.

But a lawyer for the Umlauf Hospital said they had Mrs. Dillon's written authority to release her records.

"We had a release signed by the patient, and other legal assurances," said hospital lawyer Richard Hoppis, but he wouldn't elaborate.

Mrs. Dillon has refused signing a release.

"Ex-Truck Driver Gets $21,108 a Month Doing What You Aren't"

By Neville G. Levin - Special Feature Writer

Orlando, FL — "I'm only a grandpa I work at a shopping center and I can take any average person and show them exactly how to do it," declares Lawrence Ishak.

Ishak began a few years ago with twenty beginners as a truck driver. But the cash didn't start to roll in until he discovered the little known secrets detailed above.

Now, on a part time, Ishak has begun to train executive people, just like himself, how to duplicate his own success.

Already the results have been astounding. For example, one person in 30 days had made $6,500 as an unbelievable 31 days!

"I'm no genius does you," he says, "only I have discovered an amazing wealth system."

"Put my program into action," he says, "and you are allowed driving your sparkling Mercedes, BMW, or Cadillac. The details your friends with your new dream home. And people will be calling you."

"Now you really be the kind of person that you always wanted to be."

And what's more," he adds, "in order to earn $30,000 my way, requires little effort!"

"Look, there's no magic wand, and you're not rich in days time and work. But it's worth it in the end," he adds. "I only want people who are willing to put forth some effort to succeed."

Now, you may not make as much as Ishak, but if you are a real "Go-Getter," you will make even more. And above all, the nice part is that you win the respect of your friends and family.

Ishak has released several further details to readers who want to start his new wealth system. Simply send your name and address to:

"Ishak-1040" Dept. MAGS, 1998 N. 427, Suite 4, Longwood, FL. 32750.

Sending $5 to cover postage, processing and handling is greatly appreciated, though not required. He will tell you.

Son fights to save pit bulls that tore his mom to shreds

By JACK ALEXANDER

Dog owner Terrence Young has hired three lawyers to save his beloved pit bulls from death — after they savagely ripped his elderly mom to shreds.

The brutal mauling of Anna Young, 78, a few years ago, was the most gruesome dog attack that Animal Control officers in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., had ever seen.

"Her breasts were torn. Her right thigh was badly ripped. Both cheek bones [were] apart, the uterus gone," said paramedic Deborah Struck.

The fearsome beasts, named Henny and Brutus, even ate parts of the old woman's body.

Henny and Brutus attacked the old lady without warning as she watched TV in her son's home while he was shopping. Cops were sickened by what they saw when Young returned home and called them. Because of the bloody scene, they figured it must be a murder.

The vicious mongrels had shredded her dress, a gash from her left ear across her throat looked as if it had been sliced open with a knife. There wasn't enough left of her right arm to hold a paramedic's IV.

Mrs. Young never got well enough to go home. She died three months later.

Her son Terrence was destroyed when sheriff's deputies arrived, but subdued when he got dogs were taken away, vet Dr. Lance Morgan. His daughter, Michelle, tried to shield one of the dogs from photographers as it was taken away.

"This was the weirdest case I've ever had," said Deputy Morgan. "The way they acted they were or were bred their dogs more than the mother."

Two days after his pretrial pets were taken to the dog pound to be exercised, Young hired a lawyer, who got an appeals court to postpone the death penalty.

Young contends Broward County had no right to take his dogs. The county dog ordinance, he argued, said the dogs couldn't be declared vicious until a second attack. The ordinance seemed to say Brutus and Henny were allowed one free bite.

The Fourth District Court of Appeal hasn't ruled whether the dogs were illegally taken away from Young.

"The issue is not the dogs or what they may have done," said Young's attorney, Howard Schneiderman. "The issue is a dog owner's rights. A dog is property and the Florida and United States Constitutions protect property. It's a Fourth amendment right."

VICTIM'S granddaughter Michelle Young walks in front of one of the dogs as it is led away by an Animal Control officer.

Karate expert rapes 3 girls

. . . while teaching them how to FIGHT OFF a rapist!

By PETE COCHRAN

Three teenage girls said they were raped over and over again by their karate instructor — while he was teaching them how to fight off a rapist.

Muscular Omar Gonzales, 32, was charged with 49 counts of rape, sodomy and sexual abuse in Larchmont, N.Y., where cops said he preyed on the girls for two years.

"He would tell the girls they had to endure touching of their sexual parts in order to save themselves from a rape if attacked," said Police Captain Michael Garcia.

In other words, sexual acts were part of karate training for the teens, ages 14, 15 and 16.

"He lured the young girls to the basement of his karate school by offering them free private lessons," said Capt. Garcia.

For whatever reason, the three girls said nothing about the alleged attacks which occurred between 1986 and 1987, according to cops.

"He taught them a whole lot about rape, but not much about defense against it," said Capt. Garcia. "The victims apparently were too frightened of him to say anything."

But when one of the girls who had left the karate school heard that a friend was attending it, she broke her silence.

"She told her friend to get out of the school before she got hurt," said Capt. Garcia. "And we were notified."

Gonzales was released from jail after posting $10,000 bail.

Fisherman sues — after gator wrecks his boat!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Fisherman Hershell Godwin is suing an insurance company which he says won't pay for $5,000 damage to his 38-foot boat — caused by a gator.

"He was a big un . . . about 14 feet," said Godwin. "He reared up out of the water and banged the bottom of the boat a couple of times."

The huge reptile knocked two holes in the wood boat, damaged the twin propellers and messed up the shaft on the port side, Godwin said.

Godwin and his wife, Jean, were cruising down the Chattahoochee River near Eufaula, Ala., when they "met" the gator.

"We were in 35 feet of water and 100 yards from shore when it happened," he said. "We almost sank.

"Fortunately we were able to pump the water out of the boat and limp back to the dock at Eufaula."

Godwin said he had the damage surveyed by the same man who surveyed the boat when he took out the insurance policy.

But the American Marine and General Insurance Co. of Houston, Tex., rejected his insurance claim, Godwin said.

The lawsuit contends the company used the claim was filed too late, and Godwin didn't use a company appraiser to determine the amount of damage.

No one at the Texas insurance company would comment until their lawyer files an answer to the suit.

Cons bust out — because jail's 'dangerous!'

Two terrified convicts said they escaped from prison because it was too dangerous in there.

Inmates Jimmie Parks, 28, and Neil Shuster, 21, have been Moberly, Missouri, for $1.5 million.

"A person can only put up with torment four or so long until he is forced to seek relief," Shuster said. Both cons said their lives had been threatened by widespread violence inside the prison. They were captured two days after escaping.

DWARF ARE 5

By MARTHA ATKINS

A dwarf couple who made medical history when they had dwarf twins say their miracle boys have made them the happiest parents in the world!

Joseph Michael and Jacob William Wee are the first-ever dwarf twins born to dwarf parents and they'll celebrate their fifth birthday on February 7.

"The first two weeks after we brought the boys home were the hardest," said their mom, Suzanne, 25. "But after that I got their schedules down and it was easy.

"It's a lot harder keeping up with them now than when they were babies. Now they're into everything and it's hard to keep track of them, but we can't imagine life without them."

And the twins' mom says that the boys are as smart as they can be.

"They're really smart," said Suzanne of Pipe Creek, Tex. "They'll be starting kindergarten in September and are really looking forward to it. School will be good for them because they love to learn.

"I'm looking forward to it.

Jumping out of bed not for the weak-at-heart, say docs

Getting out of bed in the middle of the night can be dangerous for people with heart disease, a new study reveals.

Awakened sleepers who get up often experience a temporary shortage of blood to the heart, risking damage to the organ, according to Dr. Andrew Selwyn of Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

"It seems that jumping out of bed and running around to do something is a risky move that we should think about," Dr. Selwyn said.

In 87 percent of the night awakenings studied, the subjects experienced a shortage of blood in their hearts.

Army helps drill sergeants cope

Drill sergeants may act tough, but a lot of them can't handle the pressure of their jobs, the Army says.

So the top brass is establishing special counseling programs to help the sergeants settle down.

"We have the image of drill sergeants as rough, dominant, hard-driving men who can bite nails in half," said Sgt. Maj. James Williams of Ft. Benning, Ga. "But that guy is also human."

Jealous wife strangles her hubby — with his necktie!

By JOE BERGER

Jealous Georgia Papadatos got so furious at her skirt-chasing husband Costas that she grabbed him by the necktie — and strangled him to death with it!

Cops say the irate lady admitted choking the life out of plant-slm Costas, 45, during a brawl in their parked car.

"She said she got so mad she just grabbed his tie and pulled on it till he was dead," police investigator Stavros Mavridakis told reporters in Athens, Greece.

"She said she didn't really plan to kill him. It was just something that happened. After it was over, she drove the body to the police station and turned herself in."

"Costas had many affairs while we were married, but this time I was shattered because the other woman had been like a sister to me," distraught Georgia, 37, testified at a hearing. "When I confronted him about it, he just laughed and said he would make love to anyone he pleased. He thought it was a joke. I guess then I just flipped out."

The heartbroken hairstylist reached across the seat, grabbed her 180-pound hubby's necktie and pulled it tight around his throat, choking him to death.

"I was so upset I barely remember doing it," she said. "I know he tried to fight me, but I had a good hold on that tie and he was pretty helpless."
